Propaganda Objectives and Tasks for Soviet Satellites,

Related to Korean Events

OBJECTIVE I

To expedite the elimination of preponderant Soviet influence in and control of the Soviet satellite states, by

- a. promoting belief in the inevitable triumph of Freedom and by shattering the Soviet-inspired myth that communism represents the "wave of the future",
- b. fostering establishment of the preconditions of effective popular resistance to the puppet satellite regimes.

TASK A

To emphasize, in proper perspective, the brilliance, the daring and the strategic and tactical skill of the UN military operations in Korea.

TASK B

To show how aggression in Korea has increased Free World awareness of the threat posed by international communism and how it increased Free World unity.

TASK C

To focus attention upon the measures prompted by Korean developments and taken by the US and other North Atlantic Treaty Nations to increase their military strength.

TASK D

To indicate that strengthening of the military power of the Western world is designed so to improve the position of the Free World as to permit the negotiation of a tolerable settlement of east-west problems and the establishment of a durable and just peace.

TASK E

To persuade the satellite communist elite that the North Korean regime has been cynically sacrificed by the USSR and that a similar fate exists potentially for any other state under USSR domination.

TASK F

To emphasize the relief and rehabilitation measures of UN action in Korea and to indicate the scope of the US contribution to that constructive program.
